Tao Te Ching

translation by Gia-Fu Feng and Jane English, with Toinette Lippe
 2011 edition - over 100 new photos - updated (less patriarchal) translation
 Introduction by Jacob Needleman

The Tao Te Ching, the esoteric but infinitely practical book written most probably in the sixth century B.C., has been translated more frequently than any work except the Bible.

This translation of the Chinese classic, which was first published in 1972, has sold more copies than any other translation. It makes Lao Tsu's teaching immediate and alive.

2011 Vintage edition - 8.5" x 11"
 $22.00

cover of the 1972
 Knopf-Vintage edition that has sold over a million copies

Tao

Under heaven all can see beauty as beauty only because there is ugliness.
 All can know good as good only because there is evil.

Therefore having and not having arise together,
 Difficult and easy complement each other,
 Long and short contrast each other,
 High and low rise upon each other,
 Voice and musical harmony arise each other,
 Front and back follow each other.

Therefore the wise go about doing nothing, watching re-acting.
 The one thousand things rise and fall without error.
 Creating, yet not possessing,
 Working, yet not taking credit,
 Work is done, then forgotten,
 Therefore it lasts forever.

Chuang Tsu: Inner Chapters

translation by Gia-Fu Feng and Jane English

2014 edition - over 100 new photos - updated (less patriarchal) translation

Introduction by Chungliang Al Huang

A companion volume to Gia-fu Feng and Jane English's translation of Tao Te Ching, which has enjoyed great success since its publication in 1972, including seven foreign editions.

Chuang Tsu anticipated Zen Buddhism's emphasis on a state of emptiness or ego transcendence. With humor, imagery, and fantasy, he captures the depth of Chinese thinking.

This translation was originally published in 1974 by Knopf/Vintage. These new editions were published by Earth Heart in 1997 and by Hay House in 2014.

1997 Earth Heart edition - 8.5" x 11" $18.00

2014 Hay House edition - 7" x 9"
$24.00

$18.95

Gia-fu Feng & Jane English co-created editions of Tao Te Ching and Chuang Tsu:
